W. H. Fratz House
Selbysport
Private

late 19th c.

The W. H. Fratz House is a frame, two story, gable-roofed building on a coursed stone foundation. Its basic configuration is a T-plan consisting of a three bay by one bay main block with a two bay by one bay rear wing. The facade has a symmetrical, three bay, center door arrangement with a projecting center bay and cross gable roof. A shed-roofed porch supported by four turned posts and two pilasters with jigsawn brackets extends the length of the facade. All windows are two over two sash with plain board surrounds and molded cornices. Jigsawn decorations flank each window just below the cornice. The exterior walls of the house are sheathed with molded-bevel novelty siding. The roof, which is covered with asphalt shingles, has exposed rafter ends that are decoratively trimmed.

(Frantz)

The W. H. Fratz House is located on the east side of Friendsville-Addison Road approximately .8 mile south of Selbysport. Winding Ridge rises to the east and the Youghiogheny River flows northward in the valley to the west.

The house is a frame, two story, gable-roofed building on a coursed stone foundation. Its basic configuration is a T-plan consisting of a three bay by one bay main block with a two bay by one bay rear wing. The facade (W elevation) has a symmetrical, three bay, center door arrangement with a projecting center bay and cross gable roof. A shed-roofed porch supported by four turned posts and two pilasters with jigsaw brackets extends the length of the facade. The rear wing has an enclosed, shed-roofed porch on its south elevation and an open shed-roofed porch with chamfered posts on its north elevation. All windows are two over two sash with plain board surrounds and molded cornices. Jigsaw decorations flank each window just below the cornice. The facade door has the same surround as the windows and also has a transom light. Additionally, a small traceried, pointed arch window pierces the north gable. The exterior walls of the house are sheathed with molded-bevel novelty siding. The roof, which is covered with asphalt shingles, has exposed rafter ends that are decoratively trimmed. An interior brick chimney is located on the ridgeline of the rear wing and an exterior brick chimney protrudes through the roof of the rear southern porch.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This house is an example of a common western Maryland type. Houses of this general configuration, a rectangular main block and rear kitchen wing, were constructed in Garrett County from the late nineteenth through the early twentieth centuries.

Although this three-bay, ell-plan farmhouse exhibits the typical local form, distinctive elements such as the projecting entrance tower and decorative porch brackets distinguish the building from its counterparts.
